ᵢond issues were considered solely responsible for the heavier than usual turnout since the campaign for city offices has been given little attention due to the fact that the Democratic party did not present a full slate of candidates to oppose Republicans, most of whom are seeking reelection.

Survey at Noon

In the survey at noon only a few precinct workers indicated the vote cast at that time was below the usual figure A few others said the vote was about normal while most said it was above average

There were indications at noon that the Sixth ward, comprising the southeast section of the city would cast a record vote

Precinct E of the Sixth, located at Forest Lawn school building on East Church street reported 117 votes at noon Precinct workers said 150 ballots was a good vote for a city election

In precinct F at the George Washington school 175 ballots had been cast by noon This number, however was not considered unusually high as the precinct ordinarily casts about 450 votes in a city election

In the first ward precinct D, located at the Williamson residence at 637 Cleveland avenue, reported 122 votes at noon This was considered above the normal vote Precinct B of the same ward, located at the Manor House at 327 South Main street, reported 86 votes, below the average.

REPORT MARINES TO PULL OUT OF CHINA

By The Associated Press

TIENTSIN, Nov 6—The United States Marines will be withdrawn shortly from North China, probably by December 5, it was reported unofficially here today

The Marines virtually have completed their mission in North China—to restore order and help disarm the Japanese

There are isolated groups of Japanese who have not been disarmed, but Chiang Kai-shek s Nationalist troops who are beginning to arrive in North China in large numbers should have the situation in hand by then

As for the restoration of order in towns occupied by the Marines, except in the the case of Chinwangtao possibly, there are no disorders which cannot be handled by local police and Kuomintang troops The three Marine occupied areas—Tientsin Peiping and Tsingtao—are orderly except for an unidentified assailant who fired at a jeep here November 1 and a similar incident at Peiping

Outside Peiping earlier this week a group of 20 armed men—most of them ill-equipped—fired at least 15 rounds of ammunition at an American jeep containing an American Marine officer and his driver

At Chinwangtao, there have been disorders

Strong public opinion in the United States against the Americans becoming involved in a Chinese civil war which may burst forth in full fury by January 1, is one of the factors observers believe is leading to the quick withdrawal of the Marines

Reds Push Plans

Chinese Communists, reports from their Yenan headquarters in Shensi province said today, are proceeding 'full steam ahead' with plans for all-out civil war against the Central government in event negotiations with Chungking fail

The Communists, the reports said, envisage a 10-year war.

The Red leaders were reported as hoping civil war would be unnecessary and that a settlement would give them a chance by political means for eventually attaining power.

Communists, the reports continued, hoped they might be able to stave off full-fledged civil war by inflicting a few severe defeats to the government forces.

The Reds renewed today in a considerable moderate tone [illegible] charges that American [illegible] had clashed with [illegible] in North China.

SECRET TERMS OF ARMISTICE IN ITALY BARED

Some Rumors Cleared Up, But Reasons for Secrecy Not Fully Explained.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov 6—The Allies made public the much-discussed Italian armistice today, spiking some old rumors but failing to clear up entirely why the terms were kept secret for 26 months

Released simultaneously in Washington, London and Rome the armistice and related documents disclosed

1 Exhaustive unconditional surrender terms—officially still in effect—were imposed on Italy

2. In practice, the Allies never invoked some provisions and modified other substantially

3 The terms provided for no final disposition of Italian territory or property.

Why The Secrecy

Why the secrecy? Government officials explained it this way

The state department and British foreign office had discussed publication of the terms as early as December, 1943, but Allied military officials said the Germans and Mussolini s Fascist government in northern Italy could make good propaganda use of the armistice terms

The officials added that the British and American governments felt after the Potsdam Big Three conference a final peace treaty with Italy should be written.

It was believed, these officials added, that 'no good purpose" would be served by prior publication of the armistice terms.

It was decided to publish them after the September conference of foreign ministers, charged with drawing up a final peace settlement, ended in a stalemate.

Secretary of State Byrnes recently called the armistice terms "harsh and obsolete" Other government officials agree. They say the terms are more detailed and sweeping than those imposed on the former Axis satellite countries of Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania.

12 Provisions Listed

The original armistice, signed in Sicily September 3, 1943 consists of 12 terse provisions, beginning with the order to Italian forces to cease immediate 'all hostile activity"

Italy was called upon to deny to the Germans all facilities which might be used against the Allies to return all United Nations prisoners, to transfer her fleet and aircraft to the Allies.

One of the clauses authorized Eisenhower to "take any measure which in his opinion may be necessary for the protection of the interests of the Allied forces for the prosecution of the war • • •"

The other binds Italy to 'other conditions of a political, economic and financial nature" to be drawn up later These "additional conditions," signed at Malta September 29, give the Allies minute control over all aspects of the military, economic and political life of Italy

ATOM BOMB-SECRECY RAPPED BY MOLOTOV

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov 6 — Foreign Commissar V. M Molotov called for an Allied control of Japan in a Moscow address today and declared "there ought to be no secrecy about the subject of atomic energy"

In a broadcast opening Russia's observance of the 28th anniversary of the Soviet revolution, Molotov asserted

"In the treatment of the defeated we should not let ourselves be guided by our feelings, but only by the necessity to prevent a new aggression

"We must then mention here the force of atomic energy which was experienced in the war with Japan. There ought to be no secrecy about this subject"

This was the first time a high Soviet official had suggested the United States and Great Britain share their practical knowledge of atomic energy

Molotov made the anniversary address in place of Generalissimo Stalin, who has just returned from vacation.

The Soviet Monitor's version of Molotov's remarks concerning Japan was that the liberation of China was of greatest importance to the world.

It is thus clear that the Soviet Union considers most important the negotiation of control of all the Allies over Japan," he said. "In this question no satisfactory results have yet emerged, but the importance of satisfactory results is clear to all.

Street Car and Bus Stoppage Ties Up Capital; Nation's Idle Now 260,000.

By The Associated Press

Bus and street car service for most of the 800 000 residents of the District of Columbia was reported completely tied up today by an official of the Capital Transit Co of Washington because of a work stoppage of AFL Bus and Trolley Operators over a wage dispute

E C Giddings, assistant to the president of the company, which provides transportation service for a high percentage of 300,000 federal employes, said no street cars or buses had been sent out from their station since 5 a. m (EST).

Total at 260,000

The number idle across the country because of work stoppages was around 260 000

The nation s other transportation tieup because of a wage dispute was the strike of AFL bus drivers for Greyhound lines affecting service in 27 states About 4 300 were on strike, most of them on lines in 19 eastern states

Union leaders and company officials have expressed willingness to negotiate their differences in the Southwestern Greyhound lines walkout but the employes stayed off the job No resumption of service in the seven states serviced by the lines appeared imminent They left their jobs over the week-end joining others employed on lines east of the Mississippi who quit work on Nov 1

In the San Francisco bay area, the strike over wages of some 12 000 AFL and CIO machinists which has kept idle an additional 30,000 workers in scores of industries, continued

CIO'S MURRAY RAPS CHANGE IN VOTE PLAN

Mine Chief Gains Temporary Victory in Hot Exchange; Green Backs Lewis.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov 6—A hot exchange between mine union leader John L. Lewis and CIO President Philip Murray today threw the labor management conference into dispute over Lewis' demand for a bigger role.

Lewis gained a temporary victory by obtaining delay in conference action on creation of an important executive committee pending settlement of a controversy over union representation.

A proposed agenda for the conference called for an eight-member committee, with four places each for labor and management.

Labor's votes were to be divided equally between the AFL and CIO Lewis demanded places for his United Mine Workers and the railroad brotherhoods.

Murray Protests

Murray protested changes in the committee makeup. Murray declared he had heard reports of a "veritable blitz" by Lewis to get on the conference executive committee

Lewis shouted that Murray's words constituted "despicable and unique German terminology"

Lewis roared that "Mr Lewis doesn t care a tinker's malediction whether he is a member of any committee" personally. But the UMW chief made clear he wanted his mine workers represented.

Murray retorted that Lewis knew he never employed "Hitler-like tactics" He added he was prepared to support all recommendations of the conference rules committee and to give consideration to Lewis' position.

The fracas developed over the rules committee's recommendation that the conference arrange for an eight member executive committee as proposed.

The conference left open this question

AFL President William Green also proposed executive committee representation for the UMW and the railroad brotherhoods.

The four places for management on the committee would be divided equally between the National Association of Manufacturers and the United States Chamber of Commerce

The first big issue confronting the committee is a decision on the CIO's demand to bring the question of wages before the conference Opposition has been expressed by both management and AFL groups to conference consideration of wages

Would Limit Field

This would restrict the business of the conference to a search for specific ways and means of settling labor disputes without a rash of reconversion-obstructing work stoppages.

William Green, AFL president who spoke late yesterday, said inclusion of wages, full employment and legislative matters on the agenda "would make failure of the conference a foregone conclusion."

"For obvious reasons these are questions which should be dealt with between labor and management through collective bargaining on an industrial or plant basis," Green said.

Harding To Open Cage Card Nov. 28 Against Delaware

Bohyer Works Out with 30 Hopefuls, Expects More When Football Season Ends.

By BILL COULTER

Basketball is beginning to force football from the limelight at Harding High school with the first cage tilt of the season scheduled for Nov. 28 at Delaware Willis. Coach Dewey N. Bohyer is at present working with about thirty cagers whom he hopes to get into shape for the first contest. Of these thirty boys, ten are holdovers from last year's squad.

As soon as football is tucked away for the season, Bohyer intends to have a few more boys report for practice sessions. Dave Lee and Dick Holliday, both on the football squad, are expected to help out as both played a good bit of varsity basketball last year. Ralph Weber, another footballer who played a fair share of ball on last season's cage team, will probably be available after the last pigskin contest.

Practice at Edison

Among those who are now working out at the Edison gymnasium after school are Laurie Feaver, Don West, and Ed Preston, all of whom played on last year's varsity team.

Several of last season's reserve squad are out this year making a strong bid for varsity berths. Jim Riley and Jim Nemes are two boys who are expected to see plenty of action during the forthcoming season. Both boys played on the reserve team and both got a little taste of varsity competition during the campaign of last season.

At the present time Presidents have an eleven game schedule drawn up and Mr. Bohyer says he is trying to find competition for a couple of open dates early in February. With the abandonment of the N. C. O. league Harding has scheduled some teams that usually are able to produce cage teams of a rather high calibre.

Of course Harding can not be overlooked as far as that goes, having a reputation for turning out top notch quintets.

Following is the schedule drawn up to date:

Dec. 14—at Bucyrus.
Dec. 21—at Mansfield.

Sportsmen Polled On Short Game Season

By The Associated Press

XENIA, O., Nov. 6—The Greene County Fish and Game association has asked local sportsmen for their opinions on a shortened open season this year on pheasant, Hungarian partridge and rabbits because of the area's small game scarcity.

The association plans to poll hunters on a proposal to limit shooting of game birds to one week and of rabbits to perhaps two, spokesmen said. The legal season for pheasant and partridge extends from Nov. 16 through Dec. 1, the rabbit season closing Jan. 12.

A spokesman blamed the preying of foxes last winter for the present shortage.

SARRINGHAUS STILL WITH STATE SQUAD

Expected Back for Practice; Confers with Widdoes.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 6—Halfback Paul Sarringhaus, asserting "I don't want to be a quitter," reported today he was back on the Ohio State university football squad.

His statement followed a conference yesterday with Head Coach Carroll C. Widdoes.

The "Hamilton Hurricane," leading ground-gainer in the Big Ten in 1942, disclosed that he resigned from the squad because he felt he had been unjustly "bawled out" for his play in the Oct. 20 game with Purdue, which Ohio State lost 13-35.

"I was the only one bawled out for losing that game," he said in an interview, "I have no objection to being bawled out—I have been bawled out a million times—But I thought it was unfair in this instance."

Sarringhaus, a member of the Buckeyes' 1942 national championship team, who took over the left halfback job on the club this fall when discharged from service, injured a shoulder and saw only limited action against the Bucks' last three foes.

Widdoes said he expected Sarringhaus to be out for practice today.

"All I ask is to play my share of Ohio State's last three games and a chance to prove my football playing ability, which I haven't had in the last two games," Sarringhaus asserted.

The Buckeyes still have Illinois and Michigan on their schedule, after their game with Pittsburgh this week-end, and will need the big halfback if they are to remain in the running for the title.

Purdue also took things easy after last week's 28-0 win over Pitt, while unbeaten Indiana went through a long defensive drill. Hoosier end Ted Kluszewski has recovered from a knee injury and will be ready for duty against Minnesota Saturday.

Elsewhere around midwest grid circuits:

Illinois welcomed back tackle Lou Agase and guard Les Bingaman, sidelined with injuries. Gene Kwasniewski was promoted to a starting halfback berth for his showing against Great Lakes. Northwestern bemoaned the loss of halfback Bruce Bairstow and quarterback Don Laser, hurt in the Ohio State game, and center Ray Miller, a V-12 trainee being transferred to Harvard. Wisconsin held a stiff workout in preparation for Northwestern. Iowa's victoryless Hawkeyes worked on fundamentals.

Pitt Coach Asks for Advice

Shaughnessy Invites Sports Writers To Tell Him How To Play Against Ohio State.

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 6—Clark Shaughnessy today turned the tables on the critics who usually tell him what should have been done last week by asking them what Pitt Panthers ought to do against Ohio State Saturday.

The University of Pittsburgh grid coach popped the question at a weekly luncheon of broadcasters and sports writers.

Criticized for taking too many chances in Pitt's 39-9 loss to Notre Dame and not enough in the 6-0 defeat by Temple, Shaughnessy said.

"You tell me what to do. Shall we play a conservative game—hold down the score and play to look good—or shall we gamble, depending on a freak chance to win but losing by a big score if we fail?"

"Play to make the best showing," said Sports Editor Harry Keck of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Ex-baseball manager Pie Traynor, now a sports broadcaster, declared, "If you're going to get beaten, anyway, you may as well shoot the works and use every boy on the squad."

"Suppose it's third down, six to go on our own 25. What would you do?" Shaughnessy asked.

All agreed they would run a play.

"That's gambling," Shaughnessy pointed out. "I think it's stupid to try to gain. The other team expects a punt on the fourth down. Any time you wait until last down to punt the entire opposing team is intent on blocking the kick."

The Pitt coach asked whether his five-times beaten team should elect to kick or receive.

Kicking is safer, said the newsmen.

"We kicked to Notre Dame and they ran the ball back to the midfield stripe," countered Shaughnessy.

The session ended in a draw.

BUCKS TOP BIG TEN IN SCORING, RUSHING

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Defending champion Ohio State isn't leading the Western conference, but figures on conference play served notice today on Indiana, Purdue and Michigan, other title contenders, that Coach Carroll Widdoes' Buckeyes will be no soft touch.

The Buck lost to Purdue and had a narrow scrape with Northwestern last week-end, but official conference statistics today showed the Buckeyes lead the league in scoring with 103 points, in yards gained by rushing with an average of 228 per game, and in total net gain per game of 325 yards.

The Buckeyes also were far ahead in number of rushes per game, with a 57.4 average.

Purdue still heads the circuit in passing, with an average of 560 per cent of completion. The Boilermakers have completed 28 of 505 tosses for a total of 397 yards—the latter also tops for the conference. Bill Canfield leads the league in pass receiving, with a total gain of 208 yards on 14 receptions.

Purdue also leads in punting, with an average of 37.3 yards per kick.

Michigan has three defensive leaderships. The Wolverines held four conference opponents to a total of 20 points, limited them to an average of 129 yards per game rushing and total net gain, including passes, of 169 yards.

Mel Groomes, Indiana halfback, leads the conference in ground gaining average with 6.5 yards per try, while Ollie Cline, Ohio State fullback, has 431 yards gained, although his average is only 4.4 yards per try.

Connecticut Gridder Tops Nation's Scoring

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 6 — Walter Trojanowski's three-touchdown splurge against Amherst Saturday boosted the University of Connecticut's classy back into first place among the nation's best individual football scorers with 84 points.

In racking up 14 touchdowns in six games, Trojanowski moved past Terry Ragan, the former Redlands ace who is now with Southern California. Ragan collected 12 touchdowns for 72 points in five games with the Redlands but failed to cross into the end zone in his one start for the Trojans.

Jim Boswell of Oberlin ranked third with 66 points.

MOVIES SHOW IRISH FAILED TO GO OVER

Notre Dame, Sports Writers Convinced Colella Stopped.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 6—Newsreel pictures of the windup of last Saturday's Notre Dame-Navy game have convinced Notre Dame publicity man Walter Kennedy and New York sports writers that the Irish failed to score on the famous pass play from Frank Dancewicz to Phil Colella.

The films taken by two newsreel companies and shown to football writers at their weekly football luncheon yesterday also showed clearly that Dancewicz and Terry Brennan were stopped short of the goal line in their final two plunges from the one foot line following the disputed pass.

The first run of the pictures resulted in a 34-5 vote by those present in favor of "no score." The play was then shown in slow motion and most of the dissenters agreed Navy back Tony Minisi's tackle pinned Colella with his legs across the stripe but with his body and the ball on the field.

MICHIGAN TILT SOLD OUT

By The Associated Press

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 6—The University of Michigan yesterday announced a sellout of its stadium for the Ohio State football game Nov. 24, with a crowd of more than 85,000 assured.

"Find the man who posed for that—I need him!"

YES, if you know of any hard-working guy with six hands, send him to the address below. We could use a man with three brains, too. Here's our problem:

Pabst popularity—way UP. Pabst supply—limited!

So it takes a lot of extra work and hard figuring to make sure that each of our retailers gets a fair quota of Pabst Blue Ribbon. When your dealer's allotment is sold out, don't forget that he'll be getting more Pabst soon. Ask for it again, won't you?

Warren-Niles Grid "Wars" Becoming Routine Affairs

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 6—Mike Jacobs doesn't know what he's missing when he doesn't serve as the "promoter" for Warren-Niles High school football games.

Last year there was a furore that almost raised the roof of the Ohio High School Athletic Association as a result of alleged coaching from the bench in the Warren-Niles tilt.

Those two rivals got together again Friday and when the bell sounded, ending the final "round," two Niles players had been tossed out of the game by officials, three Niles players and two from Warren had been carried off because of injuries and fans twice had swarmed out on the field to protest decisions.

Harold W. Emswiler, commissioner of the OHSAA, said today this latest "Battle of the Century" hadn't been called to his attention so it seemed as if the game was to become just another chapter in the long and bitter rivalry between the two schools.

As an incidental sidelight Warren won the game 19 to 0, during which Abe Williams of Warren intercepted a pass deep in his own end zone and ran 109 yards for a touchdown. Dick Olmstead of the Warren Tribune Chronicle reported it probably was the longest run in Warren football history.

Cleveland Cathedral Latin and Massillon last week drew the biggest crowd to see a regularly scheduled high school game in Ohio; Cathedral Latin, generally recognized as last year's state champs, and three other teams were bumped from the ranks of the unbeaten and untied.

Almost 52,000 people saw the Cathedral Latin-Massillon which wound up a 6 to 6 he snapped Latin's string consecutive victories. It fourth deadlock in eight g Massillon.

Others who slipped out perfect record class Wert, beaten 33 to 0 Marys; Crooksville, trimmed to 12 by Philo after winn in a row, and Tallmadge a victim of Kent State.

Other unbeaten, untied are: Toledo Waite, Newark cinnati Purcell, Youn Ursuline, Dayton Cha Middleport, Troy, Reading, ellville, Elida, Ottawa Ironton, Upper Sandusky, Ca Copley and Piqua.

Akron Garfield, Canton coln, East Liverpool and Marys, unbeaten but tied one more times, stayed in the department.

RYE PRICES ADVANCE TO FIVE-CENT LIMIT

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov 6—Rye advanced sharply in early grain futures trading today, December and May deliveries reaching the 5 cent daily advance limit, and held close to that point during the remainder of the trading despite profit cashing.

A department of agriculture estimate that the 1945-46 world rye crop would be about 8 per cent under the 1944-45 crop touched off a wave of short covering, and traders shied away from offerings.

Wheat, oats and barley followed rye, with oats and wheat exhibiting strength from the opening Wheat gained more than a cent over yesterday's close.

All deliveries of corn advanced to the ceiling, $1.18½.

CONGRESS

cause some committeemen want to see whether correspondence about the Atlantic Charter contains any exchanges about possible involvement of the U. S. in war.

Deal Is Reported

As for the War Shipping administration:

Comptroller General Warren submitted a report to congress today for "appropriate" action. The report concerns the 1942 purchase of three old merchant ships, the Arrow, Comet and Meteor

Warren said it has been learned one or more members of a New York brokerage firm received a commission of $42,725 in the sale of the ships. The company that sold them to the government was named as Colonial Navigation Co. of New York.

Here is a fast look at other congressional activity today:

Minimum Wage — Rep. Robert Ramspeck (D-Ga) told reporters he thinks the house will accept a raise in the minimum wage to 50 cents an hour. But he said a boost to 65 cents—as provided in a pending bill—is "doubtful."

Congressional Salaries — Senator John Overton (D-La) vigorously supported a White House proposal to raise the pay of members of congress from $10,000 to $20,000 He told reporters the raise would cost every American only about five cents.

Foreign Relief — A number of senators of both parties, when interviewed by reporters, urged that American newsmen be permitted to tell the world how UNRRA money is used in various liberated countries.

The house, in voting a further U. S. contribution of $550,000,000 to the international relief agency, included a provision that the money mustn't be used in countries which deny this permission.

GRAIN FIRES AT NEVADA

NEVADA, Nov 6—The fire department was called for a fire in the grain fields at the Dirmeyer farm west of Nevada Wednesday and again on Thursday evening for the same trouble in the Raymond Creger field. Both fires were started from engines on the railroad close by. The barn on the Arthur Monroe property was partly destroyed by fire on Wednesday morning.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

FOR AN INSTANT, after Olina's question, astonishment held my [illegible].

Then, [illegible], I burst into [illegible] laugh, to my surprise and relief, wiped out the misery in her face as if I had applied a [illegible] sponge to her [illegible].

Having [illegible] the correct organ stop without my own [illegible], I promptly [illegible] the sound by pulling out another.

"Honestly, Olina," I said, keeping my voice light and faintly derisive, "that is the most amusing—and the most foolish—question I have heard in years. It really doesn't deserve an answer, but as it apparently has been troubling you [illegible] going to give you a full and [illegible] reply."

Her eyes were fixed on me with the [illegible] of a child [illegible] to receive a [illegible] and I tried to give her [illegible] measure heaped up and running over.

"Mary [illegible] in love with Georges," I said. "She likes him, admires him, finds him amusing, [illegible] as we all are of the [illegible]. But her feeling for him hasn't [illegible] of romance. All her love is given to Noel, her husband. She knows his faults, but despite his almost insane jealousy, she loves him now more than she did when she married him."

Stubborn Obtuseness

"The memory of Georges probably had something to do with that luke-warmness toward Noel," Olina said sententiously, and I suddenly longed to shake her for her stubborn obtuseness.

"On the contrary," I said a bit tartly, "there was no faintest thought of Georges in her mind when she married Noel. And her emotions were anything but lukewarm. She was wildly in love with Noel and her affection has grown with the years."

"But—but—" Olina stammered faintly, "she—forgive me—she flirted outrageously with George!"

I laughed again, but this time tenderly, and used one of Junior's slang phrases in answering her.

"Are you [illegible] me?" I demanded. [illegible] Mary [illegible] she has been [illegible] And she [illegible] said [illegible] Georges [illegible] of romance [illegible] Mary [illegible] coming at my own [illegible].

"But there [illegible] image of Mary in Georges' heart." [illegible] for the fraction of a second [illegible] words with which to answer.

Then the remembrance of my assurance to the [illegible] that if necessary Mary and I [illegible] gentlewomen, [illegible] my courage—and my vocabulary.

Indulgent Smile

"You know Georges," I said, with a smile that I tried to make indulgent, although I felt far more like sending a message to my father to box the fugitive king's ears soundly. "He is like Mary, [illegible] from his cradle. But, honestly, my dear, if you'll forgive me for touching on something sacred, I am sure that Georges loves you and you alone, and—forgive me again—I am also sure that if you play your cards correctly, you never will have cause to complain of any defection in his loyalty or his love."

"If I play my cards correctly," she repeated slowly. "I'm going to ask you to explain that, if you will, in another minute or two. But just now I want to tell you how grateful I am that you have lifted one awful fear from my heart: the thought that for the second time I might have interfered with Mary's happiness."

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M.D.

Pain in Abdominal Region

Attacks of pain may occur in practically any part of the body. A common location of pain in women is in the right side of the abdomen because there are many conditions which may produce pain in this area.

As a rule, the pain is not produced by a disorder which requires emergency treatment, except in the case of acute appendicitis and similar acute conditions. Rather, in these instances, it is necessary that a careful study be made to determine the exact cause of the difficulty so that the most effective treatment may be utilized.

Most of the patients have had the pain for a period of days or even years, and several weeks can be taken, if necessary, to make a diagnoses without any risk to the patient. According to Doctor H. B. Atlee of Halifax, unless the diagnosis is quite clear, it may be well to send the patient to hospital for a thorough investigation, which should include an examination by a surgeon, a specialist in women's disorders, a specialist in disturbances of the urinary organs, and one who has special knowledge of disorders of the nervous system. The examination should embrace X-rays of the stomach, bowel, and gall bladder, cystoscopic examination of the bladder, X-rays of the kidneys and so forth.

If the pain is colicky, is associated with sickness of the stomach and vomiting, or to any change in the action of the bowels, or if there is an increase in the number of white cells in the blood and slight fever, it is possible that the trouble is due to chronic appendicitis.

If the pain is lower than in the abdomen, is worse just before and after the regular periods, and if there are disturbances of the periods, it is possible that there is something wrong with the womb, tubes, or ovaries. If, on the other hand, the pain passes into the groin, or if there is tenderness in the middle part of the back or over the bladder, it is possible that the trouble is due to infections in the kidneys and bladder or possibly a kidney stone.

It must be remembered also, that certain disorders affecting the nerves as they come from the spine may produce pain in the right, lower abdomen. So unless other causes for the trouble are found, a complete and careful examination to determine whether or not such a disturbance is present is essential. It is best in every instance that a complete examination be made to determine the source of the difficulty before operative procedures are decided upon.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

J. C.: Every year I seem to suffer from boils. What causes this?

Answer: The cause of boils is lowered resistance to a type of germ commonly found on the skin, which is known as staphylococcus. The germs are rubbed into the skin because of the contact of the clothes, or from dirty hands.

In the treatment of boils, several things may be done. The general resistance of the body should be built up by getting plenty of fresh air, sunshine, and outdoor exercise, as well as by eating a proper diet, containing vegetables, fruit, whole-grain cereals, milk and butter, with meat and eggs in moderate amount. A plentiful amount of water should be drunk daily. The hands and clothes should be kept clean.

The use of X-ray may be necessary in resistant cases. Ultra-violet light may also be of value in increasing the general resistance of the skin.

Generals and Privates Battle for Souvenirs at Tokyo's P-X

Capt. [illegible] Ward of New Orleans, La., and a staff of two lieutenants and five enlisted men and two truck drivers spent a week renovating the building, arranging displays and training 56 Japanese sales girls and the rudiments of English.

When the doors opened at noon Saturday the building looked as neat as any Fifth avenue department store with counters piled high with colorful goods. When the doors closed at 5 p. m.—three hours ahead of schedule—the place looked like it had been swept clean by a monsoon. In those five hours, some 17,000 yelling, cheering, grinning, pushing soldiers and sailors had swarmed through two sales floors and cleaned them out, plunking down nearly $190,000.

Home for Christmas.

Among the crowd were hundreds of soldiers preparing to return to the United States who want to take back Christmas presents—and judging from the amounts they bought, they wanted to make their girl friends all look like a Japanese rainbow.

It was a sale where rank meant nothing, where the private's dollar was just as good as the general's, and where both elbowed equally at the crowded counters.

A dozen airforce colonels managed to crash their way into the sales floors before the opening hours.

Cash Registers Fail.

The Japanese yen flowed in so fast that the [illegible] registers wouldn't hold them. Lt. Robert D. McNamara poured the cash into a wooden box and then had to stomp on them with his feet to pack them down.

After the last of 3,000 [illegible] were sold late comers tried to buy those the sales girls were wearing.

The post exchange staff and salesgirls worked feverishly all day Sunday restocking and when the doors opened Monday a double line of waiting soldiers was around the entire building. Everything was gone in a few hours. And now there is a problem of where to find more goods.

One small customer was given willing precedence by the soldiers who crowded around the counter of Japanese vases.

She was Mrs. Douglas MacArthur, who brought her son, "Doug," with her. Mrs. MacArthur bought two brightly colored cloisonne vases.

"I may bring them back," she smiled, "if the general doesn't like them."

Constipated? Given up hope of finding lasting, gentle relief? Then read this unsolicited letter.

I am a rural letter carrier. For more than 15 years I used a laxative every night. About a year and a half ago a good friend suggested that I try KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. I did so, with the result that I have not taken a laxative since. I eat ALL-BRAN every day and I find it a great help. John H. Martin, Westminster, Maryland.

Wouldn't you like to be able to be regular without ever resorting to harsh laxatives again? You may — if your constipation is due to lack of bulk in the diet! Just eat a dish of delicious KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day, and drink plenty of water! If not satisfied, send empty carton to Kellogg's of Battle Creek. You'll receive double the money you paid for it! ALL-BRAN is not a purgative. It's a naturally regulating food made from the vital outer layers of wheat. It provides gentle acting bulk that promotes normal, easy laxation.

Get this delicious food at your grocer's. Ask for KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN the cereal that brings lasting relief to millions. Made by Kellogg's of Battle Creek and Omaha.

but how about the VICTORS?

...To the victors we all pay homage with medals and a grateful nation's thanks—but for countless thousands this is not enough. Now we must bind up the wounds of body and mind so that these heroes may again enjoy health and equal opportunity.

...This job must be done. In hospitals and rest centers all over the nation men who felt the cruel blast of war are being taught to live and work again in a world at peace.

...Every American can help in this great task—by buying more bonds than ever before during the Victory Loan. The uses to which the money you invest will be put are great and so are the needs. Not only rehabilitation of crippled veterans but the transportation of wounded and unwounded to their homes; of giving them their just dues under the G. I. Bill of Rights; of clearing up the enormous bits and pieces left from the all-out effort at home.

...Buy bonds generously with a heart filled with gratitude for what these men have done. Remember, too, that you are lending—not giving—your money. It will be used for a great purpose and will be returned to you by your Government for future needs. Don't just think about it—buy extra bonds today!

RVATION was so acute at Karenko Prison the Fall of 1942 that we took to counting ree beans which sometimes appeared in the watery soup pail, and if a man received a soup, and another did not, it made for hard must be hard to imagine, but it is true.

e division of our pathetic ration became so us—for we were on the very borderline of perhaps fatal malnutrition—that we asked an ide our food for us as impartially as possible ving for sustenance was such that we stood an while he attended to each split-up of the me to us from the kitchen. Finally, he said he this job any longer, and quit. We then voted Gen George F. Moore to divide the food. He out with the reservation that he could attend ing of the rice and the soup behind a closed at there could be no supervision. We would de, bereft of any thing in our minds except our ng excruciating hunger.

British General Dies

Gen. Beckwith-Smith died on the morning of e Day, 1942, of diphtheria and heart failure—and on. The American officers had become very fond plucky Englishman, but while we were grieved to go some of us felt in our hearts that he was better the rest of us ugh Beckwith-Smith was gone, we nevertheless rough with our plan to observe Armistice Day. He ave been a party to that plan. At 11 a. m. that ery one of the prisoners in camp stopped whatever ere doing, or saying, and for the next two minutes f us spoke. We made it as inconspicuous as possible a little better for having done it.

ckwith-Smith's body was cremated and the senior American and Dutch officers attended the burial urn

Weight Continues Downward

December 12, 1942, my weight was down to 125⅓

It was on this day I was permitted for the first write to my wife, with the usual restrictions. There o many rules, however, that there was little to write, a man wanted to lie to keep up his own or his s courage.

this day—just 36½ years since the day I graduated Vest Point—I did not give my wife the figure of my I just told her, in the most innocent appearing ng possible, that I now weighed exactly what I did I graduated from the Point. That was all she needed.

iken sick the night of 2 and for the next few n my bunk with a fever s. It was a combination ents mostly starvation. the ailments was beri beri, I had contracted several earlier. In my last days I had been walking across a wooden floor when Brig Gen. Lewis Beebe stopped me.

"Say, you've got the foot slap," he said.

Only then did I notice the telltale way in which the soles of my shoes were slapping the floor. The dry type of beri beri causes the muscles in the shins and ankles to lose their sensitivity with the result that when the heel is placed on the ground while walking, the rest of the foot quickly collapses.

Beri beri or not, and most of us at Karenko had it, we eventually were forced to work. We decided that it was either work or death by starvation, which left us little choice. The Jap guards had promised that if we did go to work we would be supplied with work rice, that is an extra portion allotted to workers.

But the Jap mind is a baffling nest and going to work was not as easy as expressing the willingness. We had to appeal to them to permit us to work, to make it appear that we were breaking down their lofty resolve to uphold the Geneva Convention.

Work Area Designated

But at last the absurd negotiations were done with, and we were told that we would work on an area just outside the prison barriers, an area which would be cleared for a truck farm. Whatever we raised, they told us we could eat. Each officer was given a tool which the Japs called a kuha and we called a chunkle, and marched out.

A chunkle is a dull-edged, wide and very heavy adze mounted on a shaft about 2½ feet long. It is used for breaking soil, cutting out brush or grass and grubbing for roots and rocks.

By this time we were in such atrocious physical condition, however that for many of the senior officers this work was a dangerous gamble with our lives. It was difficult even to walk on our clogs to the area we had to clear. In my case I came to depend more and more on the light walking stick which Gen MacArthur had left for me on Corregidor when he departed.

Japs Guard Seeds

But slowly and painfully we did clear our first patch of ground and prepared it for the planting of various seeds. But we were not entrusted with the seeds. The Japs knew very well we would have eaten them.

As for our "work rice," we soon saw that the Japs were using this promise as another means of mocking us. At least half of the time they refused to give it to us. The "work rice" we did get therefore was not enough to compensate for the strength we were expending on our tasks of walking to and from the land and clearing it. The land became much harder to clear, in addition, and our conditions sank accordingly. Some of the heavier Dutch officers lost nearly 100 pounds.

One day in December I was ordered by "Boots"—Lieut. Nakashima—to get Generals Percival and terPorrten and Governor General Tjarda vanStarkenbourg and bring them before him. We lined up and "Boots" waited until we bowed. Then he launched into a long and furious charge that Jap internees in the United States, India and Australia were being "grossly mistreated."

Compelled To Send "Protest"

In my case he demanded that I write to the war department and "protest" this treatment of Japs in the United States. If I refused, he said, our own treatment at Karenko would become worse. With the help of General King, Moore, Beebe and Funk I did put a letter together the next day, written in such a way as to underline the fact that it was coerced.

But the Japs never waited for that letter to reach its destination. In fact, after "Boots" dismissed us that day, 24 hours before the letter was written, we saw him march across the parade grounds on his queer, tight riding boots and run up the steps toward the administration buildings.

I went back to my room and while sitting there I saw "Boots" return, line up the Jap guard, and saw him speak at length to his men.

Beatings Begin

I do not know what he said to them. But I do know that immediately thereafter all of us began to undergo indiscriminate slappings, beatings and clubbings.

It was on this night that I was first struck. After the 8 p. m. roll call, knowing I had a half hour before I had to be in bed, I picked up my towel and went back of the barracks to the vile latrine.

Just as I came out of the latrine and started for the washing spigots on the rear porch of the barracks, I noticed a Jap centry standing nearby. He was a short, stocky, muscular man.

I turned a bit and bowed to him, with the usual sick feeling in my stomach, and started to go on. But he shouted something at me and then motioned to me to step closer to him. I walked over.

"Yes?" I asked. A group of American officers nearby stopped to watch.

Jap Strikes Wainwright

The Jap swung very quickly and slapped me across the face. It was a stinging blow, and in my throat I felt a rising gorge of hate and despair.

I stood there. Encouraged by what he had done he slapped me again, then again, and then a fourth time. Each time he hit me he shouted "Japanese in America."

The blows made my legs weaker but I was determined not to fall at the feet of a rat like that.

He saw that I was not going down, so he took a lunge at me and hit me on the left jaw with his fist. And then I fell. I was only half-conscious from the blow, but the part of my consciousness that was alive told me that here was the very pit of my life.

I shook my head clear, got up and walked slowly over to the water spigot, and after a time I had strength enough to turn on the water and wash myself.

Passes Sleepless Night

Gen King was in bed and the light was out when I got back to my room. I told him about it, and lay there awake the rest of the night.

The next day was inspection day, and it was my duty to help Gen King clean and dust our little room. We were at work in there, and I was still shaking from the night before, when our door was suddenly flung open and a Jap sentry jumped in and roared something at us.

My back was turned to the door at the moment, and I was dusting off the shelf that held our mess bowls. And in my nervousness I accidentally knocked one of the bowls off the shelf.

I tried to catch it before it hit the table below, but I missed—and it broke in many pieces.

The Jap sentry let out a bellow of rage, shifted his bayoneted rifle to his left hand, and rushed at me with his right fist drawn back.

Bayonet Penetrates Wrist

His bayonet went into my left wrist, and he beat me about the face with his right hand for what seemed like a terribly long time. Then exhausted he stopped and screamed at me to pick up the broken pieces of the dish.

I picked them up. He got behind me and prodded me out of the room in front of my silent men, and marched me over to the guardhouse where he lined me up in front of the sergeant of the guard and made his report.

All I could do was stand there, holding the bits of the dish. My wrist bled badly, the blood running down my fingers and dropping to the ground.

I felt myself growing quite faint, for I was in such awful physical condition. The sergeant of the guard listened to the long report of the sentry, looked at my wrist, and then ordered me to go to the hospital.

Col Harold Glattley, of our Medical Corps, bandaged my wrist, cursing quietly while he worked.

Beatings Continued

Our beatings never stopped at Karenko. Some of the enlisted men were slugged as many as three times every day, and it became a rare sight to find one whose eyes were not blacked, nose mashed or head and body full of lumps.

Our men were beaten, sometimes with rifle butts, for many undetermined infractions of rules—rules we often did not know about until we found ourselves breaking them. The Jap rules often were made up on the spur of the moment.

One of the cruelest beatings was the one taken by Lieut Gen Sir L. M. Heath, a grand and decent man. He had been quite badly wounded in the first World War. About three inches of bone had been removed from his left arm between the elbow and shoulder. His left arm simply hung by its flesh and muscle. To relieve the drag upon this tissue Gen Heath had small loops sewn on the left lower pocket of his blouse. He would fit his fingers into the loops to support his arm.

General Beaten With Gun

A Jap private watched him approach one day. Gen Heath saluted as correctly as any man could salute. But the private pretended to believe that Heath had saluted while his left hand was in his pocket.

The Jap raised his gun and beat Gen Heath unmercifully over the head and face with the barrel of the weapon. Then he beat the butt of the gun into the boneless portion of the British general's bad arm and left him lying there in the dirt hardly conscious and badly battered.

For weeks after that Heath's eyes were like twin pools of blood and his left arm had to be put in a sling.

The weather turned cold about the time the beatings began, and we had so little meat around our bones that we shivered perpetually. If they would only have given us our shoes it would have been helpful, but they never would.

The cold and our condition had a bad effect on our kidneys. Most of us young and old were forced to get up about every hour of the night, find our clogs outside, and paddle through the cold night air to the latrine.

An "Unbearable Nightmare"

The Japs would be waiting for us at the latrine. They knew we had to come and it saved them the trouble of searching for us. Almost everyone who went in was slapped, kicked or cursed. Sometimes the sentries would line up 20 or 30 of us outside the latrine and then go down the line hitting us in the faces.

I tell you it was an unbearable nightmare. But there was nothing to do but bear it.

I was badly beaten one night at the latrine for using the wrong door to emerge from the terrible place. There was no use explaining that I had not heard that the rule had been changed. Nothing was an excuse at Karenko. It was deep-dyed Hell.

No American can take a pasting without a suffocating desire to fight back. Yet we had to swallow our rage and take it. One of our officers could bear no more one day and he instinctively drew back his fist to hit a Jap private who was slapping him pitilessly. But he never threw the punch.

The Jap private let loose an insane roar, seized his gun in both hands and would have killed the American on the spot if we had not found an interpreter just then and begged him to explain to the soldier that our man had simply raised his arm in self defense.

The officer's life was spared but he was placed in one of the solitary confinement cells for days with next to no food. There were no beds in any of these cells. Men placed in solitary were forced to remain standing in the frigid little rooms from 6 a. m. until 9 p. m. every day, day after day. Most of them had to be dragged out when the sentences were finished.

And thus it went at Karenko until Christmas 1942.

Testing A Big Proposition

WHATEVER [illegible] may have been for [illegible] the labor-management conference [illegible] to make [illegible].

[illegible]

The United States [illegible] now [illegible] began. We were eager [illegible] together and [illegible] they are [illegible].

But [illegible] the war over, we are in danger of [illegible]. Either our different elements — management and labor in this instance, are [illegible] of cooperation [illegible]— a cynic will pop up one day [illegible]. Did the United States really win the war?

There are tons and miles of arguments and statistics in the argument that labor leaders and spokesmen for management are having over terms for the work waiting to be done. They are engrossing, but they don't throw much light on the argument.

The argument is on a proposition so fundamental that it defies statistics. It is the proposition that if two men have a job to do, they can do it better in good faith and mutual responsibility than they can do it in bad faith and distrust of the other fellow's motives.

Either organized labor and management will get together on the positive side of that proposition, not only in Washington at a formal conference but all the way down the line to Podunk and points west, or the miracle that is America will be the miracle that was America.

Commander-in-Chief, Once Removed

IT IS beginning to be importantly evident that one of the principal results of the armed forces coordination under discussion in Washington would be to reduce the chief executive's influence as commander-in-chief.

Under the reorganization plan favored by a special committee of the joint chiefs of staff, as explained to the senate military affairs committee, the armed forces would be coordinated by a secretary, with an executive assistant to be known as an undersecretary. Their work would be guided by a chief of staff of the armed forces. Below the chief of staff would be departments of air, army and navy, each with its own chief of staff. The present joint chiefs of staff, as developed during the war, would be retained to advise the commander-in-chief, the President of the United States.

To the extent that this proposal embodies lessons learned during World War II—and the extent is undoubtedly great—it seems to aim at more systematic coordination of the armed forces at the top. In this war, coordination was the responsibility of the chief executive. Under the proposed organization, coordination would be the fixed responsibility of the secretary of the armed forces, his executive assistant and the chief of staff advising them and putting their policies into effect. While the commander-in-chief would lose none of his constitutional authority, his actual authority would be exerted beyond and above a more direct authority—that of the secretary of the armed forces. The chief executive would be, in effect, a commander-in-chief once removed from personal responsibility for the conduct of the war.

On Parade

IT IS plain to all concerned that there will be no satisfactory way to welcome home all the Americans returning from the war. The parades staged for outstanding generals and admirals in New York, Washington, San Francisco and other large cities are only a synthetic substitute for the real thing.

The trouble, of course, is the individual point system that causes each community's membership in the armed forces to return as individuals, not as parts of a military unit. By the time the majority of the service men are back home, a parade in their honor will be an anticlimax. Yet, in the fixed opinion of nearly all citizens, homecoming without a parade is incomplete. The omission is on the consciences of hundreds of towns and cities.

Something will have to be done about it eventually, though the probability that most veterans will prefer to let things ride the way they are suggests itself immediately. Still, it's probable that most of the men who were in uniform—and the women—will be back home by July 4, 1946. It's easy to imagine them making a fine show, if they would consent to put on their uniforms once more. It's easy to believe the sight of them all together for the first and last time would be one of the most moving experiences of the war. The small community lacks the facilities to stage a spectacle like the recent Washington homecoming for Admiral Nimitz, or New York's victory parade for Gen. Eisenhower, but it lacks nothing in desire to pay its sincere tribute to the men and women who fought and won the war.

The Truman views on military training are those of an old soldier with the unique experience of having commanded a battery of 50,000 gunners, if we can believe all who claim to have served overseas with Harry.

Unification Report Finally Pried Lose

WASHINGTON, [illegible] —The [illegible]

The plan will no doubt require a year to be brought to full working efficiency. The changing of the status of bureaus and divisions will require at least that much time.

Simultaneously also, a reorganization of the top men in both services is in prospect. Admiral King [illegible] a single department [illegible] the navy [illegible] an air department [illegible].

No Reason for Delay.

The departures of Marshall and King were slated for the first of [illegible] Mr. Truman [illegible] Eisenhower in Europe [illegible] which have arisen [illegible] agreement on the peace setup.

There is no valid reason for these delays. The new plan should be adopted immediately and the [illegible] of [illegible] the new [illegible] the [illegible] setup.

Admiral King and the old line navy people have presented their [illegible] and have [illegible] the argument. Their complaints have been rejected by the vast majority of congress. To put the matter off now further and further is to tamper dangerously with the defense of the nation.

The new defense plans cannot be [illegible]. Any army [illegible] are necessarily only of a tentative nature in both services. If Mr. Truman considers the state of the world such that he cannot demobilize speedily and completely, then there must be a military urgency to get the unification plan into action, as the efficiency of the armed forces relies just as much upon that as upon the number of men retained.

Zionism Not Basic Issue

[illegible] some 600,000 Jews are living there and are there building a permanent form of civilization.

But now there is an indeterminate number of homeless Jews in Europe who have small chance of rehabilitation in their homelands. The number is estimated to be from 100,000 immediately pressing cases to 2,000,000 who will ultimately have to move. The Zionists ask that 100,000 be moved to Palestine at once and that the principle be recognized that as many more be ultimately moved as Palestine can support.

The British government is hesitating because of the dangers of violent reactions all over the Arab world which includes some 40,000,000 people and, through religious ties, extends deeply into India. Zionist leaders are very critical of British policy.

Migration Continues

The movement of refugees, Jewish or others, out of Europe is practically impossible at the moment, except by dangerous and illegal means. As a result, thousands of homeless Jews are drifting to the south and southeast of Europe, to Greece and Turkey and by one means or another, are getting to Palestine. This migration, which has no official sanction at all, is probably what is causing the immediate troubles in Palestine.

Meanwhile, statesmen and leaders everywhere are seeking new outlets which will not further complicate the Arab problem. The Soviet has offered a home for a considerable number of Jewish people in Asiatic Russia. Many European Jews are reluctant to go there. There is a report that the British government has a plan to move 70,000 to a temporary home in Morocco, but this does not seem to be acceptable to Jewish [illegible].

Over the time we shall hear of an idea that has been suggested before by Jewish leaders who are not of the Zionist group. This is that a large section of Africa—perhaps in former German southwest Africa—be set aside as a home not only for homeless Jews but for other unhappy and [illegible] minorities. This should be administered by the United Nations until self-government is possible.

Threat To Allied Unity

By Walter Lippmann

BERNARD BARUCH must have meant to influence the financial negotiations between the British government and our own. That much is clear, not from the contents of his letter to Representative Gore (D-Tenn.), but from the fact that he chose Monday of this week to put it out, for just in these days the negotiations are at that delicate and critical point where the question is whether the Labor government of Great Britain will agree, in return for a dollar loan, to make the attempt, which is difficult and full of risk, to return to the free international markets which our government desires.

It is still uncertain whether the views of the two governments can be reconciled. If they are not, the western world, already gravely divided from the Soviet Union, will be divided within itself. Thus the failure of Britain and America to agree on a common regime of international trade for the democracies would be a shattering blow to the unity and stability of the world.

Baruch expresses no concern about this, and as a matter of fact his letter could hardly have been more adroitly contrived to wreck the negotiations and prevent a reconciliation of the British and American views. It incites those very suspicions on both sides of the Atlantic which stand in the way of a constructive compromise, namely, the American fear of being rooked into giving away our patrimony to foreigners and the British fear of becoming subservient debtors of the United States.

The effect is all the more destructive in that the letter intervenes by indirection and insinuation rather than by a straightforward and explicit statement of what its author thinks should and should not be done.

What Concerns Baruch

Baruch is concerned—judging by his letter—with two aspects of foreign lending. The one is that we shall not extend credits which enable foreigners to buy more goods in our markets than we are able to produce for export. This would aggravate inflation. The other is that we shall not finance other countries "to nationalize their industries against us." This might destroy our own competitive system."

If [illegible] there is to say on these two subjects, the conclusion is very simple. Make no foreign loans. Then by one master stroke we shall prevent foreigners from inflating prices in our markets and from nationalizing their industries against us.

But obviously, there is a lot more to be said on these subjects than Baruch has said. One is that while [illegible] foreign credits can, if they are undirected and uncontrolled, aggravate inflation, the stoppage of foreign purchases by refusing credits would certainly prevent the kind of full production which alone can prevent inflation.

If Baruch knows any way, given the existing structure of the American economy, by which production can be maintained at a high level without very substantial exports he knows something that no one else knows.

It is, therefore, grossly misleading to talk as if foreign lending were a form of national sacrifice and charity when in fact it is a national necessity. Yet in this letter that is exactly how Baruch talks, as if lending itself must be presumed to be an evil rather than a good.

Baruch's remarks on the relation between American credits and the nationalization of industry abroad are hardly what might reasonably have been expected from an elder statesman. They are based on the assumption that the United States can, by the use of credit, control the policies of foreign governments. The assumption is as untrue as it is dangerous.

Baruch is supposing that, with American credit, socialist governments abroad will be better able to nationalize industries than without American credit. But on the contrary, the more these foreign countries with their socialist governments are isolated from the markets of the outer world and forced to rely upon their own resources, the more stringent and total will be their collectivism.

It is clear that Baruch has not understood that in Great Britain it is the advanced socialists in league with the advanced imperialists who do not want Bretton Woods, who do not want the American loan. Why? Because the socialists want a closed economy which can be planned and regulated, because the imperialists want to bind the empire together even if they have to have state collectivism to do it.

Baruch simply does not know what is going on in the world if he imagines that he can stop European socialism by threatening to withhold American credit. The threat itself will only provoke Europeans to go faster and farther toward planned self-sufficiency within a closed system and financiers cannot interfere.

The withholding of credit or offering it on conditions which are political and ideological rather than economic and business-like, can only make collectivism a certainty. In a state of economic siege or blockade within confined regions of the world, there can be little or no free and competitive enterprise.

We are now the most conservative of the great powers. It is far from being an easy position to hold. We shall need for ourselves and for the principles we believe in, wisdom in affairs. We shall need a greater wisdom than the primitive notion that we can sit on our wealth and grow rich, or that being rich we can buy anything, including the souls of our fellow men, that we choose to pay for.

First Sound Your A

By Truman Twill

"THERE is much to be said for purring," we remarked to the Twillery tomcat while he was blowing out a rhythmic series of muff explosions the other day. "It must be very so ing to the nerves."

T. Manville grinned and kept on purring, giving the job a few flourishes to show his [illegible]. He is one of the few cats in this part of the country who can purr in two keys at once, a sound effect not unlike that of a chant for bass and baritone voices. He stopped and yawned.

"One of the reasons I feel sorry for humans," he said slowly, through a few belated burps, "is their inability to master this simple art. You see, there is nothing to it, nothing at all. You just close your mouth and eyes, take a deep breath and start to rumble. Like this. Sound your A, clear your pipes and let fly."

And he went through "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," without muffing a note. It was a piece we didn't know he had in his repertory. "I just got it into shape a few days ago," he explained, noting our astonishment. "I heard some fellow trying to do it on the radio and thought I could do better."

But about the purring, now, the mouth is closed, you take a deep breath but what is the thing that happens. What then? It seems easy for [illegible] but there must be some special equipment somewhere. After all, purring isn't like snoring, because it is done deep down in the throat, not in the nose. Another demonstration, please.

So, T. Manville took another deep breath and launched into "The Rosary." He rumbled through it without a slip. "You see," he explained, "I cannot really tell you what happens because I've never been able to see. I just close my mouth and eyes, feel like purring and I purr. It's as easy as falling off a log for me, but I suppose it would be quite a trick for anyone who can't do it. Try again."

Still nothing happened. To give it a fair test we stretched out on the floor beside the cat and tried to get into the same position, even the closed eyes. That was where the lady of the house caught us—with T. Manville going through "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms" the second time, and the m faking a shaky tenor.

"Listen," we commanded, "T. Manville is singing. He was trying to show me how he does it. But it's some kind of a trick. If you think you're so darned smart, suppose you try it. it's uncanny."

Uncanny how a grown woman could make the mistake of putting out her husband and letting the cat stay in the living room.

OHIO BANKING CHIEF ASSAILS "GI" LOANS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 6—The loan features of the G.I. bill of rights are "unsatisfactory both to the veteran and to the lender," H. E. Cook, Ohio's superintendent of banks, reported to Gov. Lausche today.

The governor said he would send copies of the report to the state's senators and representatives in Washington in the hope they might try to amend the law to make it more workable.

Too much time and red tape are required to complete a veteran's loan, Cook charged.

He explained that under the present law business loans may be made only for equipment, no provision whatsoever being made for inventory or merchandise with which to carry on a business.

"It is almost impossible for any lending agency to make loans for the purchase of a business" because of the restrictions in the law and the regulations governing its operation, he declared.

Cook pointed out the Ohio legislature had removed practically every restriction on Ohio banks making G.I. loans so as to comply both with the G.I. act in letter and spirit and said as a result Ohio chartered banks were now in position to grant more liberal treatment to veterans than national banks can.

The Ohio bank superintendent also called attention to what he called "ill-advised publicity" regarding the purpose of the G.I. bill of rights. He said this had led many veterans to believe the G.I. loans "were actually in the form of a bonus and not a debt to be repaid."

The G.I. bill of rights requires veterans to furnish their own security on loans.

Records of Calls Reveal How Nazi Chiefs Lulled England

(Editor's Note: This is the second of three stories on the secret telephone conversations of Nazi officials recorded at the time of the Austrian anschluss.)

BERLIN, Nov. 6 — Even as Germany prepared to consolidate her Austrian conquest in 1938, Reichmarshal Herman Goering and Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop were conspiring to allay British fears and clear the way for the seizure of Czechoslovakia.

The pattern of lies which passed for Nazi diplomacy had one chief purpose, to lull Britain into inactivity with vague promises of a German-British understanding.

Transcripts of international telephone calls between Nazi leaders, salvaged from a Berlin rubble pile, record these conversations which took place between von Ribbentrop in London and Goering in Berlin immediately after German troops marched into Austria.

Transcript of Calls

Goering: "The symptahy for National Socialism (in Austria) is complete and, to us, surprising. Except for the Jews in Vienna, apart from these black ravens no one is seen who is against us."

Ribbentrop: "The situation here is—for the moment they have had a great surprise. But generally they are looking at things with common sense."

Goering: "Simply propose to Halifax (Lord Halifax, then foreign secretary) that a couple of really first rate people whom he trusts should be sent by him so they can see the picture. I must say; yesterday, you know, when they were saying there the most serious things, war and so forth, I had to laugh lightly because where could be found the conscienceless statesman who would send millions of people to death again because two German brother peoples were once more together . . .

Wouldn't Hurt Czechs

". . . The Czech minister who was with me yesterday explained they would be satisfied with my word I would not undertake the slightest thing against Czechoslovakia."

Ribbentrop: "The explanation was plainly given when I spoke very intimately with Halifax and (Prime Minister Neville) Chamberlain."

Goering: ". . . We threaten in no way the Czechoslovak republic. But the Czechoslovak republic on the contrary has now the opportunity to arrive at a friendly, reasonable relationship with us."

Ribbentrop: "(I) told Halifax four principal opinions also regarding a German-English understanding."

Goering: "I stand for a most warm German-English understanding. If the English want a really honorable understanding and if the English recognize reciprocally that we also are a proud, free people, then nobody could be more glad than I. For at least we are two brother peoples."

Ribbentrop: "I got the impression Chamberlain also has the will for an understanding . . . (Halifax) remarked that he was only worried for the Czechoslovakian republic . . . I told him we had no interest and no purpose to do anything there."

Little more than six months later, Nazi soldiers violated Czechoslovakian soil and occupied the Sudetenland.

STAR FARMER TALKS AT LIONS MEETING

Gordon Eichhorn Discusses Activities of F.F.A.

Gordon Eichhorn, recently named Star Farmer of America, talked to the Marion Lions club Thursday following a showing of a motion picture, "Let's Go Fishing," featuring Tony Acetta, world champion fly-rod caster, at the club's weekly noon meeting at Hotel Harding. The picture was brought to the group by Hobart Lawson.

Various projects entered into prior to his receiving the national award were discussed by Mr. Eichhorn. To familiarize his listeners with the Future Farmers association he informed them that the F.F.A., a local, state and national organization, has a membership of 194,000 farmers throughout the United States and that 47 of the 48 states have councils.

In explaining how membership in the organization is gained, he said that the start toward becoming a member is made when enrolling in a four-year agricultural course at the beginning of the freshman year in high school.

The club's next Thursday meeting has been postponed until evening, it was announced by John E. Peacock, in charge of arrangements.

Guests in addition to Robert Bush, former Lions member, recently discharged from the U. S. Navy, were J. E. Hooper of Burbank, Calif., Sherman Halderman, Donald Carskadden, Harold Seiter, Raymond J. Mayfield and Maynard Smith.

Lloyd Meredith of New Bloomington was elected vice president for Marion county; Clarence Gompf, secretary-treasurer, and George Schertzer, program chairman. The Association will hold meetings once a month, it was decided, with the first meeting of the group to be held in December.

any significant political trends and most cities expected less than half their eligible voters to visit the polls.

At Cincinnati, where nine city councilmen and four board of education members are to be chosen, election officials predicted 50 per cent of the voters would mark ballots.

But in the state's other metropolitan centers, the vote was expected to be well below the 50 per cent mark.

Cleveland officials predict 45 per cent, or 175,000 voters, would participate in the balloting there. Columbus anticipated 65,000 out of 158,000 eligibles; Youngstown 35,000 of 80,000; Toledo's total was estimated at 70,000 and Dayton and Montgomery county forecast 50,000 of its 162,000 would go to the polls.

MANILA, Nov. 6—A Spanish priest and a Filipino laborer, testifying at the war criminal trial of Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, recounted today the starvation, torture and massacre of 6,000 Filipino and Chinese civilians by Japanese troops before the fall of Manila.

Father Belarmino Decelis of the Spanish Augustinian order, said that last February 5 the Japanese jammed the 6,000 civilians into the ancient church of St. Augustine.

Women and children, he said, were kept without food in the church compound until they were so hungry they ate grass and roots.

On February 9 the men were forced to stand in the open streets under heavy fire and then marched to Fort Santiago where the burnings and slayings took place.

Juan Paloda, the Filipino, testified he was one of 100 packed into a dungeon 20 feet square. He was stabbed later, and left for dead with 500 other bodies.

Defense attorneys sought to show that the civilians in the historic old area might have died in the all-out American attack.

Earlier, an 11-year-old girl, Rosalinda Andoy, showed the military commission conducting the trial the scars of 38 bayonet wounds.

Manchuria Holds Key To Future of China's Civil War

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Fate certainly is making pawns of China for the grabbers.

Thus far the efforts at reconciliation between the Chinese Communists and the National government have failed to discover any avenue of escape from the horror of a civil war which in fact is already under way although there has been no formal declaration of hostilities. Hard fighting has developed along the vital communications of North China.

Bitterness has been added to the situation through the charge by the Chinese Reds that American fighting forces have been in action against them. New China Daily News has challenged the claim that U. S. Lt. General Wedemeyer's promise that Americans would avoid participation in Chinese internal strife was nothing but a lie.

Both Washington and Chungking have denied these allegations categorically. That's as it should be, for armed intervention in Chinese civil war is no part of Uncle Sam's business.

D. Mackenzie

This column a week ago said that it looked as though the Chinese Communists were figuring on the conquest of northern China—where they are in greatest strength—and Manchuria. Developments strengthen that belief.

Red Strategy

Indications are that the Red strategy contemplates the seizure of Manchuria, with its well developed war industries and other resources, for a powerful base from which to strike at the National forces. The Communists already hold large industrial and agricultural areas in the northern Chinese provinces of Shansi, Shensi, Shantung, Anhwe, Kiangsu and Hopeh.

Were the Red armies able to consolidate this great and rich territory, the natural development would be the establishment of a Chinese Soviet state, thus splitting China in two. And one wonders whether the war would halt with this partition of the once huge China, or whether it might continue to the bloody finality which would see one side completely crushed. A fight to a finish might mean years of torture for China's five hundred millions.

Certainly the crisis now developing in northern China is one of the greatest experienced by that country in the some 5,000 years of history which is claimed by tradition. They say that it was in this same theater—at Sian in Shensi province—that in 2852 B. C. there lived Fu-Hi, supposedly the first emperor.

Manchuria is the key to the immediate future, because of its vast resources. This country possesses one of the richest soils in the world and it is heavily cultivated. There is great mineral wealth—coal, iron, gold and manganese. There is petroleum, and lumber is an important product.

For this reason the armies of both sides are racing to gain control of the railroads running from northern China into Manchuria. The Japs have been developing the country intensively ever since they overran it in 1931, and thereby set in motion the wheels of aggression which ultimately brought Mussolini and Hitler into the field of conquest.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek had planned to land troops from the sea at Dairen and Port Arthur, the great Manchurian harbors, but according to information in Chungking his government hasn't been able to overcome Soviet objections to the use of these ports. This has caused disappointment and worry to the Chinese Nationalists, but no official in the capital has been willing to comment for fear of offending Moscow.

Chungking has taken encouragement from the report that the Russian troops would begin to withdraw on November 10 from southwestern Manchuria along the Peiping-Mukden railway. However it looks from here as though this might be of even greater benefit to the Chinese Reds. In any event the Russian withdrawal will open up a strategic position.

M'ARTHUR SMASHES BIG JAP INDUSTRIES

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, Nov. 6 — General MacArthur today smashed Japan's four greatest financial and industrial families and gave notice of his intentions to break up all such combines to aid Japanese economic development among peaceful Democratic lines.

The Japanese government was ordered immediately to prepare to dissolve Mitsui, Mitsubishi, Sumitomo and Yasuda Zaibatsu and their holding companies and to eliminate their controls of Japanese finances and industries.

MacArthur told the government to set up a holding company liquidation association to direct the dissolution under direct Allied control.

The breaking up of Japan's feudalistic houses of industry was expected to create an international financial headache in the question of how to dispose of thousands of shares of stock held by American and other foreign firms.

Supreme Allied headquarters issued a survey revealing widespread ramifications in the prewar tieup between Japan's "big four" industrial empires and firms throughout the world.

The survey said American corporate big names such as Westinghouse, Tidewater Associated Oil Co., International Telephone and Telegraph, Aluminum Co. of America and Libby-Owens Ford had business links with such houses as Mitsubishi and Mitsui. Their stock holdings and unsettled debts pose a huge problem.

Japan Sheet Glass Co. Ltd., a Sumitomo concern, was established in 1918 as a joint enterprise of Sumitomo and Libbey-Owens Sheet Glass Co., Toledo, Ohio, which is a Libby-Owens-Ford subsidiary, the survey stated.
